SHOT BY A PHYSICIAN.

Dr. Murphy Sends a Bullet Into a Negro Merchant's Hip Yesterday.

R. B. Crawford, a negro who runs a store at 153 Porter street, was shot in political life when the occasion presented itself yesterday afternoon by Dr. C. E. Murphy, fourth ward physician, yesterday about noon.

The negro's wound is not necessarily dangerous.

For some time past Crawford has been under Dr. Murphy's treatment, and has been buying medicine from the doctor's store without payment, and upon the day following when Crawford sent to the drug store for more medicine Dr. Murphy declined to send it. Yesterday, therefore, Crawford was buying Crawford's place when he was stopped.

Crawford asked of the doctor, "But you wouldn't say your bill," answered the doctor.

"You have got mighty nice all at once," said Crawford.

"That may be," answered the doctor, "but it is a right I have."

"Maybe you think I am dishonest," said Crawford.

"I haven't said that," answered the doctor, "but I will say if you treat everybody as you did me."

Crawford began abusing the doctor, using the most insulting epithets. Finally Dr. Murphy drew a pistol and Crawford started to strike the doctor, but was prevented by a negro man. The doctor returned to his office and Crawford was passing Crawford's place, and stopping, called him "Crawford, we don't want any trouble in court. Let's adjust the matter."

At this time Crawford began discussing the matter. Finally Crawford started to be offensive again, and Dr. Murphy started to draw a pistol. Crawford also started to draw a pistol, and the doctor then pulled his pistol, and Crawford started at the doctor. Dr. Murphy drew a pistol, and Crawford rushed into the street, and Crawford started at the doctor. Crawford started at the physician. The street struck Dr. Murphy on the cheek, making him fall. The doctor then pulled his pistol, but before he could fire Crawford rushed upon him, grabbing him around the neck.

over the hip, making an ugly and serious wound. Dr. Murphy drove to police headquarters and called for a patrol car. He was unable to get the sum of $300. Crawford will be unable to get out for some time.

ABOUT BASEBALL

What is Being Done—News of interest from elsewhere.

There is not much in the way of news to say about the Atlanta club. The work of securing subscriptions to stock is going along slowly. Everybody wants to own a share, but everybody seems unwilling to subscribe to the stock. ... It takes time to get everybody, and for that reason the money for the Atlanta club will not be put out for some time.

The Atlanta club's existence depends upon the support it receives from the people of Atlanta.

The Sporting News, in discussing the admission of Louisville to the Southern League, says:

The admission prices will be 25 and 35 cents. There is a chance that the 25-cent yearling ticket prices may be uniform at 25 and 35 cents in each of the other two years. The 25-cent ticket is subject to the use, unless provision is made specifically to the contrary.

At the meeting it was decided that the economic crisis could regulate the price of admission to the races. If the price of admission then comes to 25 and 35 cents it is wanted to.

Here and There.

The Sporting News thinks Pete Webber, of New Orleans, the coming pitcher.

It is expected that the Athletics will play exhibition games in Atlanta before the opening of the season.

Gibson, the promising player with the Birmingham club, will be remembered as a former member of the Atlanta club.

Manager Harry Wright, of the Philadelphia league club, has written to Atlanta to see if he can get the Atlanta club to play a few weeks for better season practice.

The regular exhibition season will open at the Atlanta club.

Chattanooga would have entered the Southern league even had Atlanta conceded to suit. The Atlanta Braves, however, are the first club in the league, and all classes of citizens and boys are proud to have the team in their city. The wealthy class well represented. Both Chattanooga and Atlanta paid their gate receipts to the league, and the latter did not even get some time ago.—Sporting News.
